Schools

Education is very important in American Fork. Our schools are located in the Alpine School District. We currently have 7 elementary schools, 2 junior high schools, and 2 senior high schools. We also have 1 special education school, which provides educational opportunities to students both physically and mentally handicapped.

Test scores of students in the Alpine School District continue to be competitive with or exceed those of students nationally. American Fork High School Marching Band is rated number one in the state of Utah and continues to receive numerous honors and recognition.

THE Kaysville City ♦ NEWSLETTER

A Publication for the Citizens of Kaysville

Mayor: Brian D. Cook

City Council: Neka Roundy, Christopher Snell, John McCleary, Nathan Pace, Casey Hill

Newsletter Editor: Linda Ross

MAYOR'S MESSAGE

What a great election day turn out. Around 80% of our registered voters participated in the election process and some important decisions were made.

I, for one, was heartened to see our national scene settled as it always should be by the ballot box and two candidates acknowledging the decision and keeping the courts out of the process. I believe we were blessed on a state level to have two great gentlemen compete for our highest office. The mutual respect they showed each other was gratifying and the campaign process was exciting. I believe the new Governor will be reachable and, as City officials, we will have his ear.

Locally, we had some important issues decided. To build or not to build a new library or swimming pool were valid issues that the Council decided should be presented to the citizens for a decision. The citizens have spoken and with the turn out we had, I am convinced it was a valid statement of the feelings of the community. It is fair to say those issues are behind us and we should move forward.

The last couple of weeks I had the good fortune of attending the state semifinal and final football game between Davis and Skyline, and Davis and Cottonwood. I want to congratulate the young men on our DHS team. Yes, for their state championship, but even more for the character they possess. As I have watched this team come together this year, it is very apparent they are a special group of young men that have truly exemplified what the word TEAM stands for. They have proven themselves winners, not only on the field, but in life. I am sure I speak for all the citizens of this community when I thank them for the great year and, more important, for being who they are as young men.

On behalf of the City Council and staff, I wish everyone a happy holiday season.

CLOVER CLUB PROPERTY

An ad hoc committee is being formed to help decide what should be done with the Clover Club property at Fairfield Road and 200 North (which was purchased by the City a couple of years ago). If you would like to be a member of this committee, contact Linda at 546-1235.

CHRISTMAS TREE PICKUP

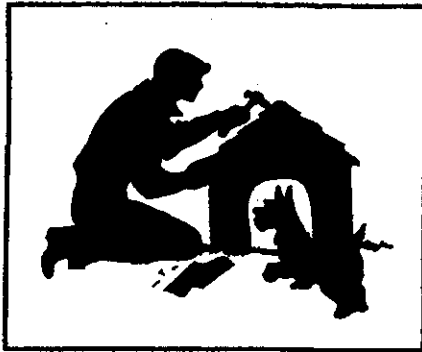

If you would like your natural Christmas tree picked up and discarded, place it at curbside on Friday, January 7, 2005. Our refuse collector must dispatch a different type of truck to pick up these trees, therefore, this is the only day that Christmas trees will be collected. If you fail to place your tree out by that date, you will have to dispose of it yourself. Also, because these refuse trucks are different from the automated trucks, it will be necessary for you to cut your tree in half. Trees or limbs over 5' in length will not be picked up.

OVERNIGHT PARKING RESTRICTIONS

From November 1 to March 1 parking on the streets is prohibited from 12:00-6:00 a.m. The Police Department could place a citation on any vehicle parked on the streets during that time regardless of whether or not it snows. Having streets clear of vehicles, during the night as well as the day, helps facilitate snow removal. Parking horse trailers, house trailers, RV's, junk cars, trucks larger in size than 3/4 ton, or other vehicles of like character are also prohibited on city streets throughout the year.

PROTECTING ANIMALS

Many breeds of dogs survive well outdoors during cold weather as long as a few precautions are taken to ensure their comfort. All animals should have a dry shelter which provides a break from the wind and protects them from snow and rain. Dog houses should be large enough to allow a dog to stand and turn around, and small enough to hold the dog's body heat in. A piece of heavy carpet or tarp attached to the outside top of the door will help to keep out the cutting wind. A dog house with a raised floor will keep your pet much warmer than requiring him to lie on the ground. A warm, dry blanket or a rug will provide a snugly warm bed, but should be checked often to make sure it is not wet or frozen. Outdoor pets should also receive high protein food and plenty of fresh water during cold weather. Extra calories are necessary to help your dog keep warm. A little Vaseline on the pads of his feet will keep them from becoming cracked and sore as the ground becomes icy and cold. Make sure all annual vaccinations are current and that your pet is in the best possible health.

REFUSE COLLECTION

Holidays observed by our garbage hauler are New Years, Memorial Day, July 4, Labor Day, Thanksgiving and Christmas. Garbage collection will be delayed one day following a holiday. Place your can at curbside by 5:30 a.m. on your collection day.

If you have more than one garbage can, maintain a distance of at least 6' between cans. Do not place cans underneath trees and keep them 15' clear of mailboxes, automobiles, or other obstacles. To facilitate better snow removal and mail delivery, and to reduce pranks and vandalism, bring garbage cans in from the street as quickly as possible after disposal. If your can is lost or stolen, you are responsible for replacement. Replacement cost is approximately $70.00.

KAYSVILLE CITY HISTORY

Hector Caleb Haight is unique in that he is claimed by two towns, Farmington and Kaysville, as their first settler. Shortly after the pioneers entered the Salt Lake Valley on July 24, 1847, Hector Haight was sent north to find grazing for the stock. On a beautiful stream in the Kaysville/Farmington area, Haight soon built a log cabin and brought his family to live there.

In the fall of 1849 a spot not quite two miles north, where two streams joined, was chosen by settler number two, Samuel Oliver Holmes. Two of his friends, Edward Phillips and John Hyrum Green, who were living in Salt Lake, decided to travel north to Brown's Fort (Ogden) to find a permanent place to settle. When they reached the "sandridge" (later known as Hill Field) the snow was so deep and crusted that their horses were unable to carry them through. The men returned to the cabin of Samuel Holmes, spent the night and decided the next morning that this was where they wanted to locate. They spent the winter in Salt Lake and then brought their families here to settle. The next day, their friend William Kay and his family arrived.

Many more families must have arrived during the summer because, according to the 1850 census, there were over three hundred settlers in this part of the valley and it was time for the organization of a ward. On January 27, 1851 Brigham Young and Heber C. Kimball came to the Phillips home for that purpose. Edward Phillips was asked to be Bishop, but feeling unworthy he suggested William Kay, who was appointed. It was not until September of 1852 that the ward formally began to function with William Kay as Bishop, Edward Phillips as first counselor, and John H. Green as second counselor. This little settlement became known as Kay's Ward. "Little" really isn't the word to use because the settlement covered a great deal of territory - from Haight's Creek on the south to the Weber River on the north, and from the mountain on the east to the lake on the west. In 1856 William Kay was called on a mission to Carson Valley in what is now Nevada. After Bishop Kay left there was a desire on the part of some of the people to have the name of the settlement changed from Kay's Ward to Freedom. The request was presented to President Brigham Young and when he bluntly asked, "When did Kay's Ward get its Freedom" his reply was taken as disapproval and the matter was dropped.

There had been trouble with Indians in the south and central section of the territory, an edict came out from Brigham Young that each town should build a fort for protection. Early in the spring of 1854 Jesse W. Fox, Church Surveyor, came to Kay's Ward for the purpose of laying out the fort, which was later to become the center section of the town, about midway between the two main roads. It encompassed approximately 15 square blocks, between what is now Main Street and 600 West at 200 North and 100 South. The Spanish adobe wall was to be built of clay (dug from the outside forming a ditch) which was shoveled by hand into lumber forms. The pl of the wall was five feet at the base, tapering to three feet at the top, with a height of six feet. Each able-bodied man would be assigned to build a certain section of the wall himself or hire it done. Only part of the project was ever finished and that was on the south and west sides. The entrance to the fort was located about where Barnes Bank now stands.

There was no trouble with Indians in this vicinity, so a fort was really not needed. They were of the Gosiute Tribe, commonly called "diggers" because they depended for their very existence on what they could dig from the ground in the form of roots and bulbs, or reap from the grasses and berry bushes. They were too busy trying to stay alive to make war. Then too, the settlers carried out Brigham Young's policy of "bread instead of bullets." There were times when this was a real trial, for often there was no bread in the humble home to which the Indians came begging, but what little there was, was shared. For a time, this settlement was called "Kay's Fort".

On or around 1870, the fort was torn down. In the City Council minutes it states that on April 4, 1870 the Council passed a Resolution granting the use of lands where the old fort wall stood. The Resolution states, "Be it resolved by the City Council of Kaysville City that any person or persons who have thrown down the old fort wall occupy the land where the said wall and ditch stood until the City Council shall deem that the public necessity requires them to remove to the line of the lots".

Kaysville was settled in 1850 and on March 15, 1868 it was incorporated, becoming the first city to be incorporated in Davis County and the 27th to be incorporated in Utah territory. The boundaries at this time embraced an area approximately five miles square.

The majority of people coming to Kaysville up to 1852 were English. Of the 29 families who arrived before this date, 19 families came from England, three from New York, two from Vermont and one from Kentucky. No record can be found of the other four families. Later immigration to Kaysville seems to be in practically the same proportions. The majority of the people came from England or were of English descent. Most people lived on their farms with very few homes in the central part, which has since become the city of Kaysville. The first people to arrive settled on the streams or near the lake shore. There was no division of lands. A settler came in, selected a tract of land that suited him, and if not already occupied, took it up by fencing it and living on it. Several families came together and usually settled in the same neighborhood.

Prominent citizens who lived in Kaysville:

Henry H. Blood (Governor of Utah 1932-36)
Sumner Gleason (developed the Stark Early Elberta Peach)
Newell "Hod" and Clover Sanders (founded Clover Club Potato Chip Factory in 1919)
LeConte Stewart (famous landscape artist)

Monuments in Kaysville City:

1002 South Roueche Lane

Erected for LDS Church President John Taylor who died in a home at this location July 25, 1887. At the time of his death, President Taylor was hiding in the Thomas Roueche home from Federal Marshals who were searching for him in order to prosecute him for polygamy.

44 North Main (in front of the Library)
Erected for World War I & II Veterans.

44 North Main (in front of the Library)
Erected in memory of the Weinel Mill. John Weinel, a native of Germany, was the first flour miller in Kaysville (1854). An old mill stone from this mill serves as the base of the flagpole in front of the Library.

POWER OUTAGES

The City needs to be aware of people who rely on oxygen or life-saving equipment that during power outages these people can be contacted. If you know of anyone we need to be aware of, please call Bruce at 546-1235.

SURGE PROTECTORS

Whole house surge protectors are available for $100.00. Visit City Hall, pay the fee and our meter specialist will install this device to help protect your electronic equipment. This same device is part of the standard installation on all new 120/240-volt installations (new homes). Aside from the equipment protection, it also comes with a warranty that covers any equipment that may be damaged due to voltage surges.

WORK SCHEDULE

If you have a project that may involve Kaysville City Power, please contact us in advance to be assured we have the proper material and equipment available when needed and are able to schedule time to work on your project.

SAFETY

Good weather seems to bring about a lot of outdoor activity; yard cleaning, tree pruning, home improvements and recreation. Please take a moment to familiarize yourself and the young children in your household with the dangers of overhead power lines. Also, if you are planning any excavation, call Bluestakes at 1-800-662-4111 before you dig.

ANSWERING SERVICE

Our emergency and after hours power outage number has not changed, it is still 549-7608. However, in the past, a lineman would answer or you would get a voice message asking you to leave a message. In order to provide better customer service, we have contracted with an answering service. Now, if the lineman is unable to answer your call, it is automatically picked up by the answering service after several rings. The answering service will take your information and relay it to the crew. The service may be able to tell you if we are already working on the problem and how long before service will be restored. The service has been in effect for over six months and is working very well.

TREE TRIMMING

If you are aware of any trees that are growing into power lines, please contact our office at 544-8925 and we will come out and take a look at it. The City has invested a great deal of money in this project and the return on investment is evident by the reduced number of service interruptions. Unfortunately, the tree trimming program is one which will have to be repeated constantly to reduce the number of tree related problems.
